

Understanding how imaging components interface to each other and then ultimately choosing the right ones can make or break any application. With years of experience with the leading imaging component vendors in the world, Upstate Technical Equipment will analyze your requirements and then determine which components will fit best. So whether you are looking for us to help you replace a single component, provide System Integration Services or build up a Complete Vision System, you can be sure that we will use only the best imaging components that are price competitive and work specifically for your application. Contact us for a free consultation.